“ I worked with Doug when he came to WSPY/WAUR in Plano, Illinois. Outside of work we enjoyed our times with the bowling team from work on Sunday nights in Yorkville. One of my favorite memories of Doug was whenever we had a staffer's birthday party in the kitchen or conference room, we always knew if there was leftover frosting that Doug thoroughly enjoyed having any extra that was available. Professionally, Doug was a crack journalist who knew what worked best in print, on radio and tv. He also had a keen sixth sense on news stories that were happening and where they would likely end up three steps later, so he was ready at the wheel to get a quote or interview days ahead of any other media in our area. Doug was a great asset to our company, but he was equally a great husband and father to his family and I am saddened to hear of his passing, but grateful to have known Doug and to have called him a colleague and friend.
