“My father was the most stubborn, bullheaded, and at times irritating person I’ve ever met. He introduced me to a lot very early, he never censored my environment, and he wasn’t good at communicating his emotions until after he had blown up. There were times I hated being around my father because of how stressful it was worrying about him. I watched my father get better and worse, time and time again, and it was one of the most painful things I have ever and still endure. None of that changes how amazing, supportive, and loving of a parent he was. My dad was my rock, I could have told him anything and he would never have judged me. He would have supported me through anything. He wanted me to do much better than he did, and I want to give him that atleast. He may have been messed up, especially at specific times, but he was a great guy, one of the best, one of the most loving, supportive, caring, and comforting people to have ever walked the earth. Especially towards his children. The dedication and passion he had towards us kids and towards making us something better than him, even if that meant teaching us a lot too early, will always be so greatly appreciated by all of us. My little sister Kyndall, myself, my older brother Maison, and my older sister Devany. My older siblings weren’t even biologically his yet he always showed them the same treatment, respect, love, and supportiveness towards them that he showed me and Kyndall, he raised them. He was an amazing man, who was taken entirely to soon. I miss you dad, I’ll do big things for you!”

“ Keving, what a wonderful soul you are. I met you when we were getting better. You did anything for a laugh, and I loved that about you. You also loved your family and children so much. I saw you doing great things in the years since we met, and I was so happy for you. Thank you for wearing shorts and boots whenever I asked, thank you for talking a mile a minute when I asked you to, thank you for making that time of my life so special. I will keep strong for you, Big Country!

“ I'll never forget the twelve years or more you and Kelly were together you two sure gave me heck but I loved you both still. Most of all I'll never forget the times you stopped by just to talk. Then to you guys gave me a precious gift I've and hold dearly in my heart my beautiful granddaughter Kyndall. Thank you for allowing to name her. Thank you for being the kind soul you are. You always showed me kindness and respect though I'm sure there were at of times I'm sure you would of like to do otherwise because me getting on to you and Kelly for different things. Lol. I wish you were here so I could tell things I never told you like the great guy you are you were always caring and like I said respectful and helpful In all ways. I know know your a peace so watch over us all the ones who love you friends and family. Until we meet again RIP.
