“ For some reason I thought of you today, Mrs. Lincoln. I guess it is because we just learned my mom and the others at the nursing home were moved back into their regular rooms. Thankfully the covid-19 virus hasn't claimed anymore lives there and hopefully everything can get back to the norm, or the new norm, anyway. I remember when you first arrived there, and when I first met you. You seemed so vitally alive! You were so smart, and didn't seem to need to be there. Over the next few weeks I got to know you. I had to keep my dog away from you when I visited, because you said you got bitten by a dog years ago, and didn't like them. I wanted your family to know I really enjoyed your company, and my sister and I both looked forward to seeing you when we visited. My dad was from Arkansas, and I noticed you liked going barefooted, and teased you about it, only to find out you were from Arkansas. So then we talked about Arkansas and my dad, and not wearing shoes. Anyway, I hope you are in a much happier place, and will truly miss seeing you when we get to go back inside, if we ever do.

“ Pam, Tim and Andrea
I am so sorry we cannot be with you today to honor and celebrate the life of Aunt Opaline.
We are praying for God to give you the strength you need today, and comfort in the days to come.
I look forward to a time in the future, when we can visit. Much love to you all.

ME

“ *If anyone has lived their life well, it was Aunt Opaline.
She was a sweet, gentle soul who spoke words of wisdom and encouragement, and seemed to have the patience of Job.
I always thought of her as perfect, or as perfect as a human could be.
She walked in peace with the Lord every day and was perfectly content.
What an example she has been to me! Myra*
