“ Dear Grandpa,
Every time I come through Advance, I miss you. I used to think it was so cool that you lived right up the road, all that time. You used to show me off to all of your buddies and the ladies, while we drank coffee. I know you were a hard worker, and that you had a lot of people who thought well of you, respected you. I know you had a hard life. I'm grateful that we will get to hang out together in eternity, as I spoke to your pastor after you passed. I'm sorry that I missed your funeral, my siblings have terrible communication skills. I guess I am a whole lot like you, I'm still dipping and still working way to hard, you told me we work to avoid stuff...emotional stuff. lol Sounds about right. Well see you soon. You are missed for sure.
I'm worried about Uncle Chris and about Uncle Josh and their families. I haven't heard from them and ain't nobody talking. I lost them, Grandpa. I heard Aunt Connie is doing ok, something about cancer. Our family has the worst communication skills ever. Mom always made sure to write us and call us, we could have learned alot from her I am sure. The minute she passed nobody talked anymore. I miss everyone Grandpa.
P.S. {please tell Momma I said hi and Amy too...I miss them so much and I am hoping that Dad is there too, waiting} I know you have already gotten to see the rest of the clan and not to mention the peace and the love you guys must be feeling. It's bad down here, Grandpa. You guys got it made with Jesus. Love you and miss you.

“ I love you dad. You are missed so much. I woke up from a dream I didn't like. Pretty normal for me huh dad. Somehow I then stumbled across this sight. Sometimes things are so unreal.. and I can still hear you talking to Amber and I like it was yesterday. Dad I'm very sorry I didn't make it ok. You know why. That's all that matters. I love you Daddy. More than I showed you while you were here. When we meet again I will make up for it. Amber misses you dad. I have about lost her to. May have... To early to tell. Mason is getting big and he's so smart dad. He's different dad.... That's for sure... Always watching but very quiet. Knows without knowing. He's amazing. He's so beautiful... He looks just like Amber...I love them so much. Pray for me... I'm failing... I'm about to lose what you told me to cherish. Put in a good word for me ok. I need all the help I can get. I miss you and this helped me so much this morning. You are missed by us all. Chris loves you dad. He didn't process this well. He was hurting at time also. He's sorry he didn't make it also. He knows you know why. That's between you and him. You leave Tina and Aretha alone and be good. Till we meet again. Your Son
The Baby.
